No Charges in Md. Jail Death

Pr. George's prosecutor cites insufficient evidence for trial

The top prosecutor in Prince George's County said on Tuesday that he does not intend to charge anyone in the death last year of a 19-year-old jail inmate who had been accused of killing a police officer, leaving open the possibility that a slaying once denounced by the county executive as "vigilante justice" will go unpunished.

State's Attorney Glenn F. Ivey said that, after nearly a year of investigation, he does not have enough evidence to secure an indictment in the death of Ronnie L. White. Ivey embraced calls by civil rights leaders and the White family's attorney for the Justice Department to take over the investigation.

White was found dead June 29, 2008, less than 48 hours after he was accused of killing a county police officer. The state medical examiner ruled White's death a homicide.

Ivey said he has not ruled out the possibility of bringing lesser charges, such as obstruction of justice, against one or more officers.

"You don't want the tail wagging the dog," Ivey said. "I think there will definitely be members of the community who will have concerns about anything other than a conviction for murder." RUBEN CASTANEDA AND OVETTA WIGGINS (THE WASHINGTON POST)

CHRISTMAS

Grinch Shamed by Attorney's Screed

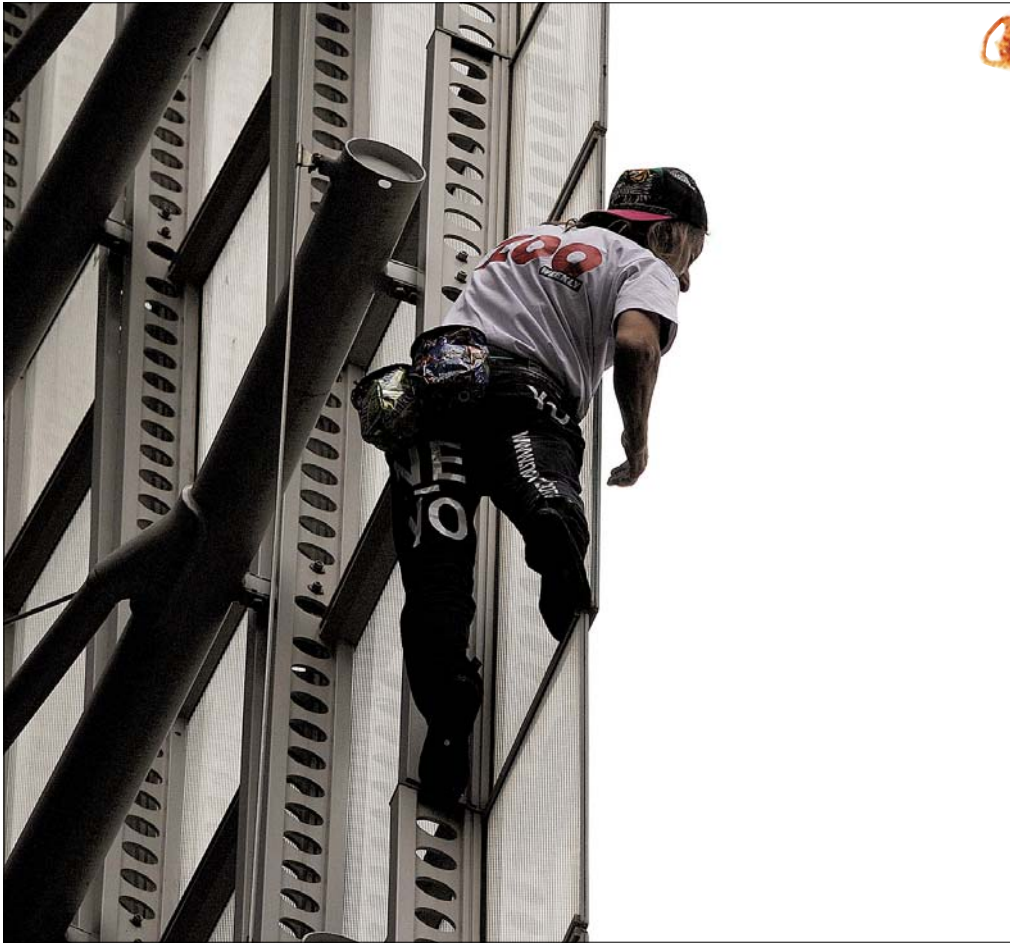

A Christmas prank in Somerset, Ky., has netted jail time for two young men who stole the baby Jesus from a Nativity scene. Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney David Dalton said, "Parents shouldn't have to explain to children why someone would steal 'baby Jesus' out of a Nativity scene or rip decorations from the side of the house. It was a stupid stunt and deserved some jail time." (AP) Minnesota Gov. Tim Pawlenty speaks on Tuesday in St. Paul, Minn., where he announced that he will not seek a third term.

Pawlenty Clears Schedule

Minn. governor won't seek third term, may make presidential run

ST. PAUL, MINN. | Minnesota Gov. Tim Pawlenty erased one doubt about his political future while blowing open another, passing Tuesday on a third-term bid while declining to say whether he'll set his sights on the White House.

Pawlenty dismissed talk of a 2012 Republican presidential campaign as premature, saying he would focus on the next 19 months to finish his term strong. But he said he wouldn't hesitate to travel the country on behalf of a party he thinks needs refreshing.

“I'm going to try to lend voice to the need to raise issues and ideas for my party here and elsewhere if I'm asked,” Pawlenty said, “because I think we need new ideas and faces in the party.”

Pawlenty has spoken in the past of the GOP's need to remake itself to attract “Sam's Club Republicans.”

While Minnesota doesn't have term limits, Pawlenty said he'd impose them on himself. “Time marches on, and now it's time to give someone else a chance.”

A conservative with blue-collar roots, Pawlenty, 48, has been considered a likely White House candidate for months.

If running for president is his goal, there are numerous advantages to vacating the governor's mansion. A 2010 gubernatorial campaign would be costly and potentially difficult. He also will be free to travel to political events and, more important, to key nominating states such as Iowa and New Hampshire. BRIAN BAKST (AP)

GOP HOPEFULS | LOOKING TO 2012

It's only been six months since Barack Obama was elected the nation's 44th president, but the 2012 presidential campaign is already well under way in the Republican Party. Some of the leading contenders to challenge President Obama are making trips to Iowa — the first caucus state in the nomination process — to scout out their chances.

MITT ROMNEY: Widely considered the early favorite to win the 2012 GOP nomination, Romney, the former governor of Massachusetts, has kept himself plenty busy in the first half of 2009. He's quietly been laying the groundwork for another presidential run, staging fundraisers for Republicans across the country while making regular public appearances.

MIKE HUCKABEE: After a surprise win in Iowa last year, Huckabee's campaign slowly ran out of momentum and money. Despite coming up short the last time around, the former Baptist minister remains a front-runner in 2012. He can probably count on the support of evangelicals, but he'll have to win over the other constituencies in the Republican Party if he wants to have a shot at the nomination.

BOBBY JINDAL: Republicans handed Jindal the spotlight on Feb. 24, choosing him to deliver the party's rebuttal to Obama's first speech before Congress. The next day, Jindal's speech was viciously panned by pundits on both sides, and the criticism seems to have dimmed Jindal's chances in 2012. Still, it's a long way to the Iowa caucus, and Jindal has plenty of time to put the speech behind him.

SARAH PALIN: With all the tabloid hoopla about Bristol Palin and Levi Johnston, it's easy to overlook the fact that the Alaska governor has been keeping a low profile. If her reception on the campaign trail last year is any indication, Palin could emerge as the front-runner.

JOHN ENSIGN: The senator from Nevada doesn't have the same level of name recognition as the other candidates on this list, but that isn't necessarily a bad thing. Being the front-runner isn't always a formula for success — just ask Hillary Clinton. Ensign made a trip to Iowa Monday. Expect more Republicans to follow his lead and test the waters in the coming months. DUSTIN WEAVER (EXPRESS)

Sotomayor Courts Support

In a closed meeting, high court nominee vows to follow the law

WASHINGTON | Judge Sonia Sotomayor on Tuesday countered Republican charges that she would let her background dictate her rulings as Americans signaled a favorable first impression of President Obama's first Supreme Court choice.

A new Associated Press-GfK poll suggested Americans have a more positive view of her than they did for any of former President George W. Bush's nominees to the high court. Half backed her confirmation.

As Sotomayor made her Senate debut with a series of private meetings, Republicans said they would prefer to hold hearings on her nomination in September.

Sen. Patrick Leahy meets with Supreme Court nominee Sonia Sotomayor Tuesday.

Sotomayor told senators she would follow the law as a judge without letting her life experiences inappropriately influence her decisions.

"Ultimately and completely, a judge has to follow the law no matter what their upbringing has been," Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., the Judiciary Committee chairman, quoted the nominee as saying in their closed-door session.

Republicans are questioning how she would apply the law, noting her remark in 2001 that she hoped her decisions as a "wise Latina" would be better than those of a white male who hadn't had the same experiences. Obama has said she misspoke; some Republicans have called the comment racist.

GM Finds Hummer Buyer

Company in China to purchase brand for undisclosed amount

DETROIT | General Motors Corp. took a key step toward its downsizing on Tuesday, striking a tentative deal to sell its Hummer brand to a Chinese manufacturer, while also revealing that it has potential buyers for its Saturn and Saab brands.

China's Sichuan Tengzhong Heavy Industrial Machinery Co. said Tuesday afternoon that it reached an agreement to acquire the brand from GM for an undisclosed amount.

Sichuan Tengzhong deals in road construction, plastics, resins and other industrial products, but Hummer would be its first step into the automotive business.

GM said the sale will likely save more than 3,000 U.S. jobs in manufacturing and engineering, and at various Hummer dealerships. Tengzhong said it will assume GM's existing agreements with Hummer dealers.

ClearChoice Dental Implant Center

"I went to ClearChoice in the morning with missing teeth and I left that afternoon with Dental Implants and a full set of great looking, fully functioning teeth. It all happened in one day!"

"I was impressed by the technology at ClearChoice. They had a 3D CAT Scan that showed where to place the Dental Implants while avoiding the nerves, and without any bone grafts. They even had equipment to make my Beautiful New Teeth at the same location!"

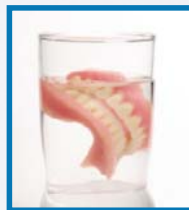

ClearChoice Changed Their Lives in Just ONE Appointment!*

Dental Implants Are the Closest Thing to Natural Teeth

Dental Implants are small titanium screws that function much like the roots of natural teeth. They support fixed replacements for one tooth, several teeth, or even a full set of teeth. With Implant-supported dental restorations, you can chew with the power of natural teeth and slow down the facial aging process.

No More Dentures

Fed up with messy creams and adhesives or plastic in your mouth? Dentures inhibit an active lifestyle and can greatly affect self-confidence. They also provide no support within the jaw, resulting in deterioration and shrinkage of the jaw bone, often causing pain, discomfort, loss of chewing ability, and resulting in significant facial aging. ClearChoice can change all that.

No More Bridges

Bridges are a three-tooth solution for a one-tooth problem. Healthy teeth must be filed down just to support the bridge. Bridges also take a pounding as you chew, limiting their lifespan.

ClearChoice can help to avoid that. Dental Implants are the modern solution for missing teeth, and can eliminate most of the problems associated with bridges. Dental Implants are as close to natural teeth as you can get and can last a lifetime.

Implants & New Teeth

All in One Appointment*

- Oral Surgeons to place the Implants. Oral surgeons are trained in surgery and anesthesia, so ClearChoice patients have anesthesia options.

- Prosthodontists to replace your missing teeth. Prosthodontists are dentists with advanced education and training in the planning and restoration of missing teeth.

- Experienced Dental Implant Lab Technicians to custom design and precisely make your new teeth.

Air France Jet Crashed in Ocean

Brazil's military finds debris from plane in sea near archipelago

FERNANDO DE NORONHA, BRAZIL | Brazilian military planes found a 3-mile path of wreckage in the Atlantic Ocean, confirming that an Air France jet carrying 228 people crashed in the sea, Defense Minister Nelson Jobim said Tuesday.

Jobim told reporters in Rio de Janeiro that the discovery "confirms that the plane went down in that area," hundreds of miles from the Brazilian archipelago of Fernando de Noronha. The plane had been headed toward Paris.

"There isn't the slightest doubt that the debris is from the Air France plane," Jobim said.

He said the strip of wreckage included metallic and nonmetallic pieces but did not describe them in detail. No bodies were spotted in the crash of the Airbus A330 in which all aboard are thought to have died.

The discovery came just hours after authorities announced they

Internet censored, critics shunned prior to Tiananmen date

BEIJING | Ahead of the 20th anniversary of the bloody crackdown on Tiananmen Square this week, Chinese authorities have rounded up dissidents and shipped them out of town. Now, they've even shut down Twitter.

Along with their usual methods of muzzling dissent, the authorities extended their efforts Tuesday to silence social networking sites that might foster discussion of any of the events of June 3-4, 1989.

The action is a new sign of the government's concern over the potential of such technology in an authoritarian society.

"There has been a really intensified clampdown on quasi-public discussion of awareness of this event," said Xiao Qiang, director of the Berkeley China Internet Project.

China has the world's largest online population, and Internet communities have proven influential in spreading word of events.

Authorities have also steadily tightened surveillance over China's dissident community ahead of this week, with some writers already under house arrest for months.

Government critics, including activist Ding Zilin and former top government adviser Bao Tong, could not be reached amid reports that they had been ordered to leave the capital.

Pakistan To Release Key Cleric

Court says it lacks evidence vs. suspect in Mumbai terror case

ISLAMABAD | The founder of the group India blames for last year's Mumbai siege was ordered freed in a court ruling Tuesday that heightened tensions between the nuclear-armed neighbors and drew criticism of Pakistan's fight against terrorism.

The ruling to end the house arrest of Hafiz Mohammed Saeed comes as Washington and other Western allies are urging Pakistan to focus on dislodging Taliban militants in the border region with Afghanistan.

In Lahore, a three-judge High Court panel ruled that Saeed, an Islamic cleric detained since December, should be freed because there was no evidence against him, his lawyer A.K. Dogar said.

The decision prompted immediate condemnation from India. "We are unhappy that Pakistan does not show the degree of seriousness and commitment that it should to bring to justice perpetrators of the Mumbai terror attack," said India's home minister, Palaniappan Chidambaram. ROHAN SULLIVAN (AP)

Clergy Unite for Marriage Rights

Church leaders from all D.C. wards endorse same-sex nuptials

A diverse coalition of more than 100 clergy gathered in a Southeast Washington church Tuesday to show their support for same-sex marriages in the District.

"We declare that our faith calls us to affirm marriage equality for loving, same-sex couples," said the Rev. Dennis Wiley, pastor of the Covenant Baptist Church, as he stood in the pulpit of his church before religious leaders from all eight wards of the city.

The clergy, who have formed a group called D.C. Clergy United for Marriage and Equality, plan to challenge the efforts of a more conservative group of pastors who are pushing for a referendum on same-sex marriage. Last month, the D.C. Council voted to recognize same-sex marriages performed in other states, and some council members plan to introduce a separate bill to allow the marriages to be performed in the District. Some members of Congress have said they will attempt to block same-sex marriage from becoming legal in the District.

The group supporting same-sex marriage — comprising clergy from a wide range of Christian faiths and several rabbis — was formed in response to a group of pastors led by Bishop Harry Jackson of Hope Christian Church of Beltsville. Together with the Ministers Conference of Washington, D.C., and Vicinity, the more conservative pastors have formed the Stand Up for Marriage Coalition to lobby against the D.C. Council legislation on same-sex marriage.

“Our faith calls us to affirm marriage equality for loving, same-sex couples.”

THE REV. DENNIS WILEY, PASTOR OF COVENANT BAPTIST CHURCH, SPEAKING WHILE STANDING WITH RELIGIOUS LEADERS FROM ACROSS D.C.

The Rev. Robert Hardies, senior minister at All Souls Unitarian Church in the District, Tuesday criticized the language some opponents of same-sex marriage have used in the debate. He cited a prediction by council member Marion Barry that same-sex marriage would result in “civil war” in the city, and Jackson’s labeling the council bill a “declaration of war.”

These three men are thought to have been involved in a shooting in Maryland.

Picture Taken Before Shooting Shows Suspects

Three men posed for a picture early Tuesday morning inside a legendary Prince George’s County nightclub, the Ebony Inn. They flashed wads of fake cash, then left and got into a fight with another group in the parking lot that ended in a barrage of gunfire that wounded a security guard.

They also forgot about the picture a photographer had just taken inside.

Prince George’s police detectives are now flashing around that color, digital photo — one of the clearest they say they’ve ever had of suspects in a major shooting — hoping someone will recognize one or more of the three men.

Police are asking anyone with information about the identity of the vehicle or the three men in the photograph to call Prince George’s police at 301-772-4910. AARON C. DAVIS (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Go To fedchoice.org for more details.

*APY = Annual Percentage Yield. Dividends compounded and credited quarterly. Balance Method: Average Daily Balance. ^Promotion effective from now until 6/30/09. Your Main Share Savings Account will continue to earn this higher dividend rate for 12 months to the end of the quarter in which your account became eligible. The dividend rate of 9.65% (10.00% APY) will be applied to all balances from $0 to $500, but no dividend will be posted on balances under $50. If you have more than $500 in your Main Share Savings Account, the balance that exceeds $500 will earn dividends based on the current "offering" Main Share rate. Therefore, the "blended" rate for the total balance in this account may actually be less than 9.65% (10.00% APY). If you cancel your eChoice Statements service any time during the dividend period, your Main Share Savings account will no longer qualify to earn the higher dividend rate and will revert back to the current "offering" Main Share rate.

Johnny McIntyre fills out the slate for a scene in "One Tree Hill" during filming in Wilmington, N.C., in 2005. States have given movie studios millions in tax breaks.

States Let Credits Roll for Hollywood

AP: States awarded the industry $1.8B in tax breaks in 2 years

$275M

The total amount of tax credits pledged to entertainment productions by the state of New York last year, the most of any state, according to a review by The Associated Press.

BALTIMORE | Many states that are cutting spending on schools, roads and other basics have been lavishing hundreds of millions of dollars in incentives on Hollywood studios to lure TV and movie productions — this, despite scant evidence that taxpayers come out ahead on such deals.

An Associated Press survey found that states competing for projects handed out $1.8 billion in tax breaks and other advantages to the entertainment industry from 2006 through 2008.

Several states have even sweetened their incentives recently or are considering doing so, for fear that if they don't land the next major motion picture, someone else will.

"The industry has been able to play off North Carolina against South Carolina against Louisiana against Georgia. Louisiana raises its incentives, and it puts pressure on South Carolina, North Carolina and other states to do likewise," said Bob Orr, a former North Carolina Supreme Court justice who heads an anti-incentives group called the North Carolina Institute for Constitutional Law.

Some states argue the tax breaks pay for themselves in revenue. Many others contend that the film industry boosts their economies with an infusion of cash and jobs.

But many economists and policy analysts who have studied the issue independently contend that tax breaks for the TV and movie industry are rarely break-even deals for states, in part because the jobs created are often short-lived. BEN NUCKOLS (AP)

Home Sales Surge in Extreme Buyer's Market

First-time buyers are taking advantage of temporary tax credit

WASHINGTON | The number of U.S. home buyers who agreed to buy a previously occupied home took the largest monthly jump in nearly eight years in April, but there are still plenty of danger signs for the battered U.S. housing market.

Home sales appear likely to head upward this summer, potentially to levels not seen since the stock market collapsed last autumn, but prices are expected to keep falling well into next year. Layoffs, which are causing foreclosures to soar, coupled with rising mortgage rates could dampen any real estate recovery.

Home prices are expected to continue falling despite a sharp rebound in sales.

The National Association of Realtors said Tuesday its seasonally adjusted index of sales contracts signed in April surged 6.7 percent to 90.3, far exceeding analysts' forecasts. That was the biggest monthly jump since October 2001, when pending home sales rose 9.2 percent.

The big boost likely reflects the impact of a new $8,000 tax credit for first-time home buyers that was included in the economic stimulus bill signed by President Obama in February. Since buyers need to complete their purchases by Nov. 30 to claim the credit, "we expect greater activity in the months ahead," Lawrence Yun, the Realtors' chief economist, said in a statement. Big Unit Eyes Major Milestone

Johnson looks for his 300th victory when facing the Nationals

BASEBALL | The mere mention of the milestone causes Randy Johnson to recoil.

"I'm not going to talk about this stuff. OK, I got to go," he said the other day, quickly leaving his locker and heading to the field. "I get distracted. I just try not to talk at all."

So, that's how it's going to be as the Big Unit prepares for his

ELITE COMPANY

The 300-win milestone is a rare accomplishment. Here are the last five pitchers to reach it.

→ TOM GLAVINE

in 2007. He has 305 victories and is the only active 300-game winner.

→ Greg Maddux in 2004. He finished with 355 wins.

→ Roger Clemens in 2003. He wound up with 354 wins.

→ NOLAN RYAN

in 1990. He retired with 324 wins.

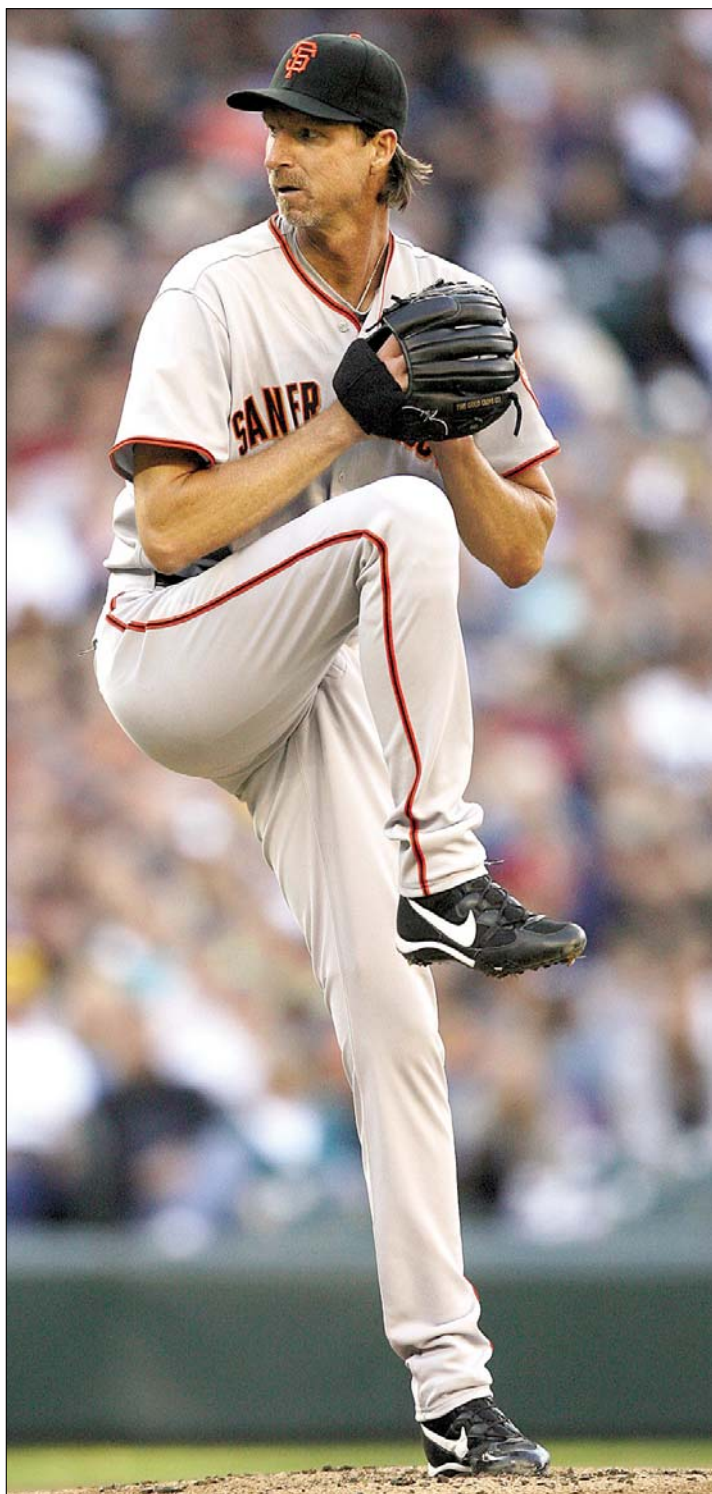

→ Don Sutton in 1986. He also had 324 career victories.

first try at 300 wins Wednesday night at Washington.

At 45, the San Francisco lefty owns a World Series ring and co-MVP honors and five Cy Young awards, and is a 10-time All-Star selection. He's thrown two no-hitters, including a perfect game, and ranks second on the career strikeout list.

The tallest player in the majors

Six-foot-10 Randy Johnson is on the verge of becoming the tallest pitcher to win 300 games and just the sixth lefty to reach the milestone. He faces the Nats Wednesday.

REALLY BIG NUMBERS

At age 45, Randy Johnson has compiled some really impressive stats. No wonder he's called the Big Unit.

The number of career victories for Johnson. He goes for win No. 300 on Wednesday in Washington.

The number of All-Star teams Johnson has been named to.

The number of no-hitters he's thrown, including a perfect game.

when he debuted with the long-gone Expos more than two decades ago, Johnson grew into more than an oddity.

He harnessed his 6-foot-10 frame, refined his blazing fastball and wicked slider, and came to symbolize what power pitching is all about.

"If he has control of his stuff, he's going to win a lot of ballgames," Montreal manager Buck Rodgers predicted after Johnson's second appearance in the big leagues.

Still capable of dominating with the Giants, he's on the verge of a plateau that many in baseball believe will never again be reached.

"With the way pitching is being used nowadays, I think it probably lessens the chance of it," said Nolan Ryan, among the 23 aces to achieve the mark. "Whether they start using starters differently because pitching is at such a premium, I don't know."

Magic Players Expect Nelson to Play in Finals

Orlando Magic players say Jameer Nelson will play in the NBA finals, even though the All-Star point guard and his coach remain publicly pessimistic. Nelson participated in a full team practice Tuesday for the first time since tearing the labrum in his right shoulder Feb. 2, with teammates saying he looked "terrific." Backup point guard Anthony Johnson said, "I expect to see him out there at some point in the series." (AP)

BC Quarterback to Transfer

Boston College quarterback Dominique Davis is transferring after his academic suspension. The school said Tuesday he has not decided where he will go. Longoria Ahead in Voting Tampa Bay third baseman Evan Longoria leads all AL players in fan voting for All-Star spots, more than doubling the total of perennial starter Alex Rodriguez. Longoria had received 1,036,071 votes in results released Tuesday. New York Yankees shortstop Derek Jeter drew the second-most votes in the AL, followed by Texas second baseman Ian Kinsler and Minnesota catcher Joe Mauer. (AP)

MMA Ultimate Warrior?

Kimbo Slice is getting back into the octagon — this time as a contestant on the new season of "The Ultimate Fighter," Ultimate Fighting Championship's reality series. Derided by some of his questionable ability, the former YouTube sensation was the main attraction at the most viewed mixed martial arts event in history last year. UFC officials, often harsh in their criticism, have said they would let him in their organization if he won the series. Slice was part of the now-defunct Elite XC. (AP)

'The Monster's Cave' Awaits U.S.

Can American soccer team break through against Costa Rica?

SOCCER | Cueva del Monstruo, or the Monster's Cave, is a purple purgatory that has chewed up and spit out every version of the U.S. men's national soccer team for a dozen years. The streets of the hilly Tibas neighborhood on the northern edge of lively San Jose, Costa Rica, offer scant warning of what awaits inside Saprissa Stadium.

If you are looking for an international soccer cathedral, a majestic edifice like London's Wembley, Costa Rican fans hold a giant jersey at a 2000 game against the U.S. The Americans have struggled in wild atmospheres, such as the vaunted Saprissa Stadium.

Mexico City's Azteca or Berlin's Olympiastadion, you've taken a very wrong turn.

The number of consecutive times that the U.S. has lost to Costa Rica in Saprissa Stadium.

The Ticos, as the hosts are known, play their home matches in a tall, rectangular, 23,000-seat venue known to generate structural tremors that rival a mild earthquake in this geologically unstable land. Without a running track to serve as a buffer, spectators are about 10 yards from the sidelines, separated from the players by wire fence.

"It's an intimidating atmosphere with the fans climbing the fence, singing for hours before the game, the smoke bombs and flares," U.S. midfielder Pablo Mastroeni said. "You have to go through it yourself to gain the whole experience."

The experience will resume Wednesday when the Americans face Costa Rica in a World Cup qualifier. The fourth of 10 games in CONCACAF's six-nation final round, it's hardly a must-win for the first-place Americans. Given their history here, a tie would be swell.

But the Americans are eager to prove they can win in the daunting venue, where they've lost five straight. "There is a real atmosphere, one that is exciting but challenging," U.S. coach Bob Bradley said. STEVEN GOFF (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Pitching Coach Fired As Nats' Woes Grow

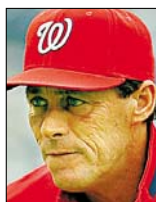

McCatty takes over staff with the worst ERA in the majors

NATIONALS | With the worst ERA and record in the major leagues, the Washington Nationals fired pitching coach Randy St. Claire on Tuesday and promoted Steve McCatty from Triple-A to replace him.

The Nationals, who entered Tuesday night's game against San Francisco with a 13-36 record, have a 5.69 ERA. They've allowed the most runs (308) and recorded the fewest saves (eight) of any team in baseball. Washington's bullpen has blown 12 saves.

St. Claire was in his seventh season with the franchise and was the only coach to be retained after last season. McCatty was at Syracuse and in his fourth season as the Nationals' Triple-A pitching coach.

St. Claire

Washington also reinstated outfielder Elijah Dukes from the 15-day disabled list and placed right-handed pitcher Kip Wells on the 15-day DL. (AP)

Sharapova Slammed Out

Rust shows during worst loss at a major in Russian's career

TENNIS | Facing match point in the quarterfinals, Maria Sharapova was no longer focused on winning her first French Open title. She merely wanted to win a game. That she did. A weary, rusty Sharapova averted a shutout Tuesday but lost to Dominika Cibulkova 6-0, 6-2 in the worst Grand Slam defeat of her career. "I don't really care about numbers," she said. "It's either a W or an L, and I prefer W."

Dominika Cibulkova celebrates after her win over Maria Sharapova Tuesday.

will be top-ranked Dinara Safina, who rallied to beat Victoria Azarenka 1-6, 6-4, 6-2. Cibulkova was one point from victory at 5-0 in the second set before Sharapova finally found her form. She won that game and then another, hitting a flurry of winners and saving four match points before Cibulkova closed out the win. Sharapova was playing in just her second tournament after a lay-off of nearly 10 months because of a right shoulder injury. She won three-setters in all four previous rounds at Paris, and the long matches took a toll. "I guess you could only ask your body to do so much," she said. (AP)

Redskins' Rogers Not Sick of OTAs

Cornerback predicts strong play from the revamped secondary

REDSKINS | Cornerback Carlos Rogers is a mainstay at offseason workouts, and when he wasn't around for Monday's first session, coach Jim Zorn said, "That was one of the surprises."

Rogers, though, was back Tuesday and said he was sick Monday.

"Just throwing up," he said. All's well now, and the fifth-year player from Auburn put in his endorsement for these workouts.

"It's real important," Rogers said. "Any time you can be with the team, and we're putting in defenses, then it refreshes your mind for defenses that we did last year. You come out here, some stuff you're going to remember. If you're just playing single, or you're playing cover-2, that's easy. But some of the trap things, this can help your mind be fresh when you come to training camp. You don't have to go through the coaching of it. It's automatic. You sit there, and you're, like, 'I don't have to write this down in my notebook, because I know it.'

Carlos Rogers said off-season workouts are important for training camp.

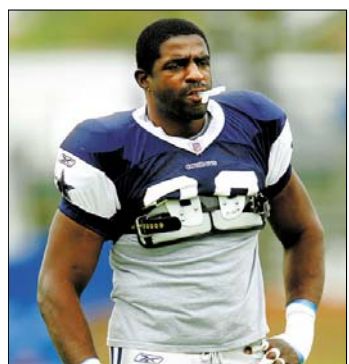

PRESTON KEST/TWP

Rogers is coming off a season in which he set a career high with 24 passes defended, though his shaky hands yielded only two interceptions. He now will be paired with DeAngelo Hall, who joined the Redskins midway through last year and was signed as a free agent in the offseason. Veteran Shawn Springs was released and is now with New England, and veteran Fred Smoot will likely serve as the third cornerback, with rookie Kevin Barnes, a third-round pick from Maryland, likely to make the team.

"I think we'll work together good," Rogers said. "DeAngelo's a good player, and he'll do real good. We should be all set back there." BARRY SVRLUGA (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Greg Ellis was cut by the Cowboys Tuesday. He had 77 sacks in Dallas.

Cowboys Sack Star DE Ellis After 11 Seasons

NFL | Dallas Cowboys have released Greg Ellis, ending the linebacker's career after 11 seasons and the eighth-most sacks in club history.

Tuesday's announcement was no surprise. A week before, team owner Jerry Jones said the club was planning to cut Ellis if he couldn't be traded.

The Cowboys bypassed Randy Moss to take Ellis with the eighth overall pick in the 1998 draft. He had 77 sacks and 634 tackles over 162 games, and led the team in sacks six times.

After tearing his Achilles' tendon, he returned in 2007 and had his best season with 12 1/2 sacks in 13 games, earning NFL comeback player of the year honors. (AP)

Nurse Practitioner, Molecular Imaging Branch
National Institute of Mental Health,
National Institutes of Health
Department of Health and Human Services
Bethesda, MD, USA

The Molecular Imaging Branch has an immediate opening for a Nurse Practitioner term position with duration of two years, renewable for an additional two years. This laboratory uses state-of-the-art PET (position emission tomography) technology and newly developed radioligands to study molecular targets in brain. For additional information, see:

<http://intramural.nimh.nih.gov/mood/progino/mib/neuro.htm>

The candidate will work to facilitate clinical research of patients with Alzheimer's disease, Traumatic Brain Injury, and atherosclerosis by recruiting and screening patients with signs and symptoms of these disorders. The primary goal is to assist in the diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease and to determine if patients are eligible for further research studies at the NIH. Screening may be extended to include patients with Traumatic Brain Injury and atherosclerosis. The candidate will apply an advanced level of nursing competence to issues of patient assurance and the implementation of innovative nursing techniques, practices, and approaches. Our research team provides outstanding opportunities for productivity and learning.

Applicants must have an active registration as a nurse practitioner in any state or in the District of Columbia. In addition, the applicant must have at least one year of specialized experience that equips the applicant with the necessary knowledge, skills and ability to successfully perform the duties of the position. Interested applicants should apply online

(Job Announcement number: NIMH-09-342266-DH) via www.usajobs.gov

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The Department of Health and Human Services and the National Institutes of Health are equal opportunity employers.

The Price of Success

Pharrell Williams
has 2 Grammys,
2 clothing lines, 5
albums and no life

Q&A | Pharrell Williams recently admitted that he doesn't sleep. "I'm just operating in a fog," he said. Williams has plenty of reasons to be worn out. Aside from his thriving career as a producer (of the new Usher album, among other projects), he performs with N*E*R*D (which is finishing a new album), runs a clothing line (Billionaire Boys Club) and a shoe line (Ice Cream) and will soon launch a branding agency.

Williams' break arrived in 1992 when Teddy Riley got him a gig writing a verse of the Wreckx-N-Effect hit "Rump Shaker." In 2004, Williams won two Grammy Awards for his production on Justin Timberlake's "Justified."

Along the way he released five albums — three with N*E*R*D, one with the Neptunes and one on his own — and found time to launch two fashion lines.

You're still doing your clothing line, Billionaire Boys Club, and your Ice Cream shoe line. Do you have new designs for either in the works?

We do new designs every quarter. Ice Cream is expanding. We're developing a TV show around it, actually. I can't speak about it too much, because we haven't begun shooting yet.

LIFESTYLES OF THE FAMOUS: For Pharrell Williams, his busy and ever-growing career rules out things such as socializing.

Billionaire Boys Club is known as a luxury brand. How's it holding up in the recession?

Billionaire Boys Club is a lifestyle brand. Ice Cream is a little more affordable, but BBC is different. I created that brand because I had a lot of admiration for Ralph Lauren, but I wanted to take that concept and pretend that Willy Wonka was the head designer. The clothes are made in Japan, so there's a price that goes along with that. Ice Cream, on the other hand, is like our silliness mixed with a huge respect for skating and how I saw things when I was a kid.

What music projects are you working on now?

I'm finishing up with Shakira's new album. I'm in the studio with Usher; I'm going in with Rihanna. I'm going in with Incubus and then with Sara Bareilles.

That's a pretty diverse group of artists.

I just want to make great music — that's what I love to do. And we're finishing the new N*E*R*D album.

You're a machine.

Well, I have no social life, and it's kind of cool that way.

CORTNEY HARDING (BILLBOARD)

Today's gamers still enjoy "Tetris."

A Game That Still Fits In

'Tetris' first stole the world's heart a quarter-century ago

GAME | "Tetris" has its 25th birthday this week.

Completed by a Soviet programmer in the '80s, "Tetris" has come a long way from its square roots. It's played by millions, not just on computers and gaming consoles, but now also on Facebook and the iPhone.

"Tetris" is one of the rare cultural products to come West from the Soviet Union during the Cold War. The addictive rhythm was an early sign of our BlackBerry-thumbing world to come.

Alexey Pajitnov was 29 and working for the Moscow Academy of Sciences when he completed "Tetris" on June 6, 1984.

Pajitnov says "Tetris" could stick around another quarter-century.

"I hope so. Why not?" he said. "Technology changes a lot, but I can't say people change a lot."

SAVE THE DATE The Early Bird Gets Leno The former host of "The Tonight Show" has a set date for his new gig. NBC says "The Jay Leno Show" will premiere Sept. 14. The new prime-time hour starring Leno will air weeknights at 10. It's the first talk-entertainment show to be scheduled by a broadcast network to run five nights a week in prime time. Leno's 17-year run on "The Tonight Show" ended last week, with Conan O'Brien taking over on Monday as host of "The Tonight Show." (AP)

For the Love of the Punk Band

Rancid's still a family affair on its folksy seventh album, 'Let the Dominoes Fall'

MUSIC | Rancid guitarist-vocalist Lars Frederiksen has extended his love of punk rock to his child. "Me and my son have a little ritual: listening to Joe Strummer in the morning, his solo records. He loves that," Frederiksen said. "I put on the Ramones, though, and he starts going crazy, throwing stuff around."

Bassist Matt Freeman also has two boys, so Rancid's genetic legacy is safe even as the 18-year-old band's musical one continues to grow. Its first album in six years, "Let the Dominoes Fall," features 19 songs that are as familiar as they are great, a kind of punk-rock folk that is filled with intimate signifiers that only long-established musical forms and scenes possess.

"I'm a huge folk fan," said guitarist-vocalist Tim Armstrong. "The spirit's still there, the commonality, the chord changes."

The acoustic roots of Rancid's songs are equally apparent on "Dominoes": "Civilian Way," "Skull City" and "The Highway" all sound like hopped-up folk tunes, while "New Orleans" has a honky-tonk vibe, and "Liberty & Freedom" sounds like Johnny Cash doing ska. "Basically, every Rancid song is written on acoustic guitar," Frederiksen said, "and it goes back to Tim writing songs with his guitar in Operation Ivy," the influential ska-punk band Armstrong and Freeman were in previously.

Folk music indicates community, too, and Rancid is nothing if not a gathering of friends, which includes new drummer Branden Steineckert. Several songs on "Dominoes" — including the anthemic first single, "Last One to Die" — profess the musicians' everlasting love for one another, for punk rock and for Rancid.

"We ain't going nowhere, because we're a really close band," Armstrong said. "Even when we weren't making a record, we're still like family, and we're still in touch with each other on a personal level. ... Even if some of the songs [on 'Dominoes'] are political and heavy, you get the sense that we really love to put these songs together." CHRISTOPHER PORTER (EXPRESS)

Short Films, Long Talks

We can't let the week go by without recommending the EuroAsia Shorts, a series of short films from Europe, Asia and North America. Each night's program takes on a new theme—tonight tackles “beauty”—and the audience can discuss it after the films are shown. All the shows are sold out, but if you don't want to show up hoping someone will skip out on their reservation, celebrate with your own tiny, house-bound film festival. F.Z.

Screen in the Square

Though the demise of Screen on the Green is sad—another iconic D.C. activity bites the dust—there are plenty of free movies to sustain us. Tonight (and every Wednesday this summer) you can see a free screening in Rockville Town Square while local restaurants offer picnic dinner specials. Tonight's film is the tear-jerking dog flick “Marley & Me.” F.Z.

Hometown Hero

Rock the Vote—didn't we already do that?—is throwing a big party for everyone at the 9:30 Club tonight, featuring D.C.'s “great rap hope,” Wale. No, he's not an adorable Pixar robot, though we bet WALL-E could make a pretty great album if he chose the right producers. Wale has already put out some amazing music, so grab the chance to see him live—before he becomes too famous for this little town. N.O.

Fine 'Whiskey' From a Grieving Band

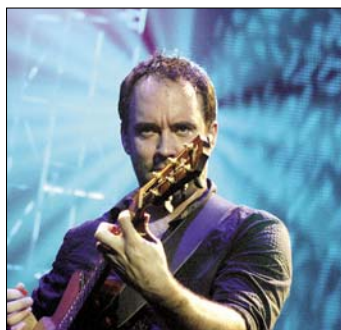

DMB finds a common, touching focus on a strong new album

MUSIC | It's a fitting start to a heartfelt tribute: the Dave Matthews Band's new album opens with a minute of noodling saxophone from horn player LeRoi Moore, who died last August after an ATV accident.

Moore's death shocked his bandmates into a sudden sense of urgency: The group had spent nearly 18 months tinkering with ideas for a follow-up to its 2005 album, "Stand Up," when Moore died. The surviving musicians quickly finished "Big Whiskey and the GrooGrux King" (RCA), and it's probably no coincidence that it's their strongest album in years.

Matthews finds a skillful balance in his lyrics between off-handed whimsy and deeper reflections, and the others back him with a tighter version of the instrumental interplay that has made it one of the most popular American bands of the past 15 years.

DANIEL MOREL/AP

Dave Matthews' lyrics and the band's instrumentation are some of their best.

As expected on an album dedicated to Moore, there's plenty here about mortality and the fragility of life. Matthews sings of finding peace and acceptance on "Lying in the Hands of God," and he muses over things that are peculiar-funny (as opposed to ha-ha) on the lead single, "Funny the Way It Is."

He goofs around elsewhere, issuing a steady stream of odd-ball come-ons on "Shake Me Like a Monkey" and growling out lyrics through a humid swamp vibe on "Alligator Pie (Cockadile)."

That song, full of banjo and Carter Beauford's busy drumming, is a full-bore display of the group's jummy instrumental prowess.

Each is a reminder, along with most of the rest of "Big Whiskey," of how impressive the Dave Matthews Band is when everyone finds a common focus. ERIC R. DANTON (THE HARTFORD COURANT)

A 'Smile' For the Cameras

FILM | The Oscar-winning documentary short "Smile Pinki" (7 p.m., HBO) offers a wonderfully uplifting story of human generosity and renewed hope.

Told without narration in a cinema-verite style, "Smile" follows medical volunteers as they scour the streets of the Indian city of Banaras (also known as Varanasi) and outlying villages, looking for children born with cleft lips and palates. They offer their families free surgery and medical care and the chance to start life over. Almost all of these young patients are born to the poorest of the poor. Most have been ostracized from their schoolmates. Many of the parents have been ordered out of their family for bringing a "monster" into the world.

Pinki Kumari examines her face in the documentary short "Smile Pinki."

The film, under 45 minutes, is remarkably simple. Hundreds of parents and children arrive at the hospital (some like Pinki Kumari and her father walk three days to get there); they get a number and wait in line to undergo an evaluation and then a simple procedure, recover for several days and then go home. The film concludes with simple scenes of formerly forlorn and outcast children playing with their peers. It's as simple — and as world-changing — as that. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Wonders of Wall Drug

Famed S.D. roadside destination is still attracting millions

TOURISM | Ted Hustead's family knows a thing or two about running a tourist attraction during tough economic times.

Consider Wall Drug, on the north edge of South Dakota's Badlands.

Hustead's grandparents, Ted and Dorothy Hustead, bought the store in this small town in 1931 — during the Great Depression.

Business limped along for nearly five years until Dorothy Hustead thought of putting up road signs along the nearby highway offering free ice water to weary travelers headed to the Black Hills and Yellowstone.

That advertising campaign turned Wall Drug into an international icon, elevating it from a roadside stop to a tourist attraction that draws about 2 million visitors a year. Wall Drug signs have been erected around the world.

Now, the nation is enduring the toughest economic stretch since the Depression. And though business was down 4.6 percent in April compared to last year, Ted Hustead said he's optimistic about the 2009 tourism season.

"Typically, we've been pretty

Travelers visit Wall Drug, a South Dakota store full of unusual items. The iconic tourist attraction still gives water to visitors.

“Same marketing plan. Still in the middle of nowhere.”

recession-proof,” he said.

Items for sale at Wall Drug include quirky photos and wall hangings, colored rocks, wood carvings, leather works, books, jewelry and mounted jackalopes — a mythical horned rabbit.

Wall Drug still has free ice water but also sells its own brand of bottled water. And despite everything available to view and buy, the free water, served in a souvenir cup, still draws people, said employee Barb Reckling.

"They'll come in and say, 'Where's your water? We're thirsty. It's hot,'" Reckling said as she tended the ice cream and soda fountain. CARSON WALKER (AP)

Airlines to Request Personal Data

WASHINGTON | Don't be surprised if you're asked to provide your date of birth and gender when booking plane tickets later this summer.

The Transportation Security Administration has launched a new program called "Secure Flight" to improve security and reduce misidentification of passengers who have names similar to individuals on government watch lists.

As part of Secure Flight, airlines will ask passengers buying tickets to provide their name exactly as it appears on the government-issued identification they plan to use when traveling. Later this summer, airlines will also begin asking passengers to provide their birthdate and gender.

Paul Leyh, TSA's director of Secure Flight, said in a phone interview that by collecting the additional information before passengers arrive at airport security checkpoints, "we can run it against the watch list and use it to clear passengers."

Leyh would not say which airlines were implementing the program first. (AP)

HISTORY Endangered Emblem The Washington Trust for Historic Preservation has released its 2009 list of endangered properties, and high on the list is a gigantic turquoise ball with an eagle on top. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer globe, a wonder of steel and neon lights, is among 13 sites in Washington state the trust hopes can be preserved. The P-I ended its print edition in March but continues publishing on the Internet. P-I officials have said that for at least the immediate future, the globe will keep spinning above the P-I's offices. (AP)

Savory Crepes

INGREDIENTS

- 2 large eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/3 cup water
- 1 cup all-purpose flour, preferably bleached
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 2tbsp butter, melted, plus 2to3tsp butter for coating the pan

IN A BLENDER or food processor, blend the eggs, milk, water, flour, salt and 2tbsp melted butter for five seconds or until smooth. Cover and refrigerate for at least one hour (two hours is preferable) or up to 24 hours.

Gently stir the batter if it has separated. Heat a seasoned 6- or 7-inch nonstick pan over medium-high heat until hot. (Use a 9- or 10-inch pan for larger crepes.) Coat the pan lightly with butter, lift it from the heat, and pour in 2 or 3 tbsp of batter for a 6- or 7-inch pan, or about 1/4 cup for a 9- or 10-inch pan, tilting and rotating the pan to coat the surface.

Cook until almost dry on top and lightly browned on the edges, about one minute. Loosen the edges with a metal spatula and flip the crepe over, then cook the other side for about 15 seconds, or until lightly browned. Turn the crepe out onto a clean towel to cool. Repeat with the remaining batter, wiping the pan with butter as needed.

To serve immediately, cover the crepes with aluminum foil and keep warm in a preheated 200 F oven. To store, wrap in plastic wrap and put in a sealed plastic bag. Refrigerate for up to three days, or freeze for up to two months.

COURTESY OF "CREPES: SWEET & SAVORY RECIPES FOR THE HOME COOK"

Let Them Eat Crepes

Fill up a flat French pancake for a tasty dinner or dessert

In many ways, the world is flat bread. Mexico has tortillas, Lebanon the pita and India the dosa. France's most common starchy disc for sweet or savory fillings: the crepe. And while whipping up a batch might seem challenging, it's really just like an advanced Gallic session in pancake-making. "In France, crepes stand for comfort food and tradition," says Provence native Cedric Maupillier, chef de cuisine of Central Michel Richard (1001 Pennsylvania Ave. NW; 202-626-0015). "They're versatile and easy to make."

In Brittany, where crepes originated, savory crepes are most popular. But feel free to globe-trot for other ideas.

Preparing a quick stack of the thin things is surprisingly simple. Just whisk together eggs, milk and flour, adding salt, sugar and water depending on the different recipes and traditions. The rounds are traditionally poured into flat-bottomed crepe pans, but any small, nonstick skillet or fry pan will do.

"For the best crepe, make the batter at least an hour in advance, and let it sit," says Lou Seibert Pappas, author of "Crepes: Sweet & Savory Recipes for the Home Cook" (Chronicle, $15). Pour out just enough batter to thinly coat the bottom of a well-oiled pan. Cook on one side, twirling the pan as you go. When it looks like it has set, flip with a spatula, and then cook it a minute or two longer.

In Brittany, where crepes originated centuries ago, savory crepes — called gallettes — are most popular. But when doing it yourself, feel free to creatively globe-trot for other ideas. "Think of them as burritos, and fill them with things that sound good," says Kyong Yi, owner of Fontaine Caffé and Creperie (119 S. Royal St., Alexandria; 703-535-8151). She does out a popular Zenist crepe stuffed with curried Indian lentils and spinach, but you could just as easily jam your pancakes with German bratwurst or Norwegian smoked salmon.

For a decadent dessert, crepes can be simple (Nutella inside, caramel sauce outside) or more complex (Fontaine Caffé's Late Nighter, with poached pears inside and butter pecan ice cream on top).

Crepes also make an unexpected, easy-to-prepare party food. And, ooh-la-la — you can even cook up a few dozen before guests arrive. They also freeze well for future occasions, Pappas says. "They can simply be layered, packaged and frozen. They thaw quickly, and each one can be peeled off one at a time." Alternatively, Yi keeps premade batter on hand for up to two days, throwing it on a hot griddle as needed. Store-bought crepes will also work; try gourmet grocers or Emarkys.com, which sells a dozen for $6.40.

In northern France, you'll likely get a crepe that's folded over once into a half-moon shape, but chez you, serve them any way you'd do a tortilla. "They can be pinwheels, pillows, folds or stacks to slice," Pappas says. What's important, as with any pancake the world over, is that they're easy to slip into your mouth and enjoy. ERIN HARTIGAN

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Tempers may flare, but you'll be in a position to see things from the proper perspective, and you can be the peacekeeper as a result.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Nothing is likely to please you more than that which is simple and straightforward. You're in no mood for complications.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may finally have to break down and do that which you swore you would never do. But you will benefit directly as a result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll want to concentrate on issues revolving around key figures in a complicated relationship. More than two people are involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You're receiving messages that may not yet mean much to you — but when you have all the information, the meaning will be crystal clear.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) The time has come for you to admit to something that you've been trying to conceal for quite a while. No real danger is involved at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You may not know how to streamline things on your own, but with a little help, you can do precisely what you want to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A little extra social time can actually result in measurable progress on the business front. Money matters can be discussed freely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Details may be rather overwhelming, so why not start by appreciating the big picture for what it offers you? Take it slow.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Keep the lines of communication open at all times. You can't afford to miss out on a key piece of up-to-date information.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The truth is the most important thing you have to work with, and it trumps everything else. Stick to the truth, by all means.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even the slightest effort can yield results you can see, touch, feel and enjoy. Now isn't the time to ask for too much too soon.
